

Budapest Day 2

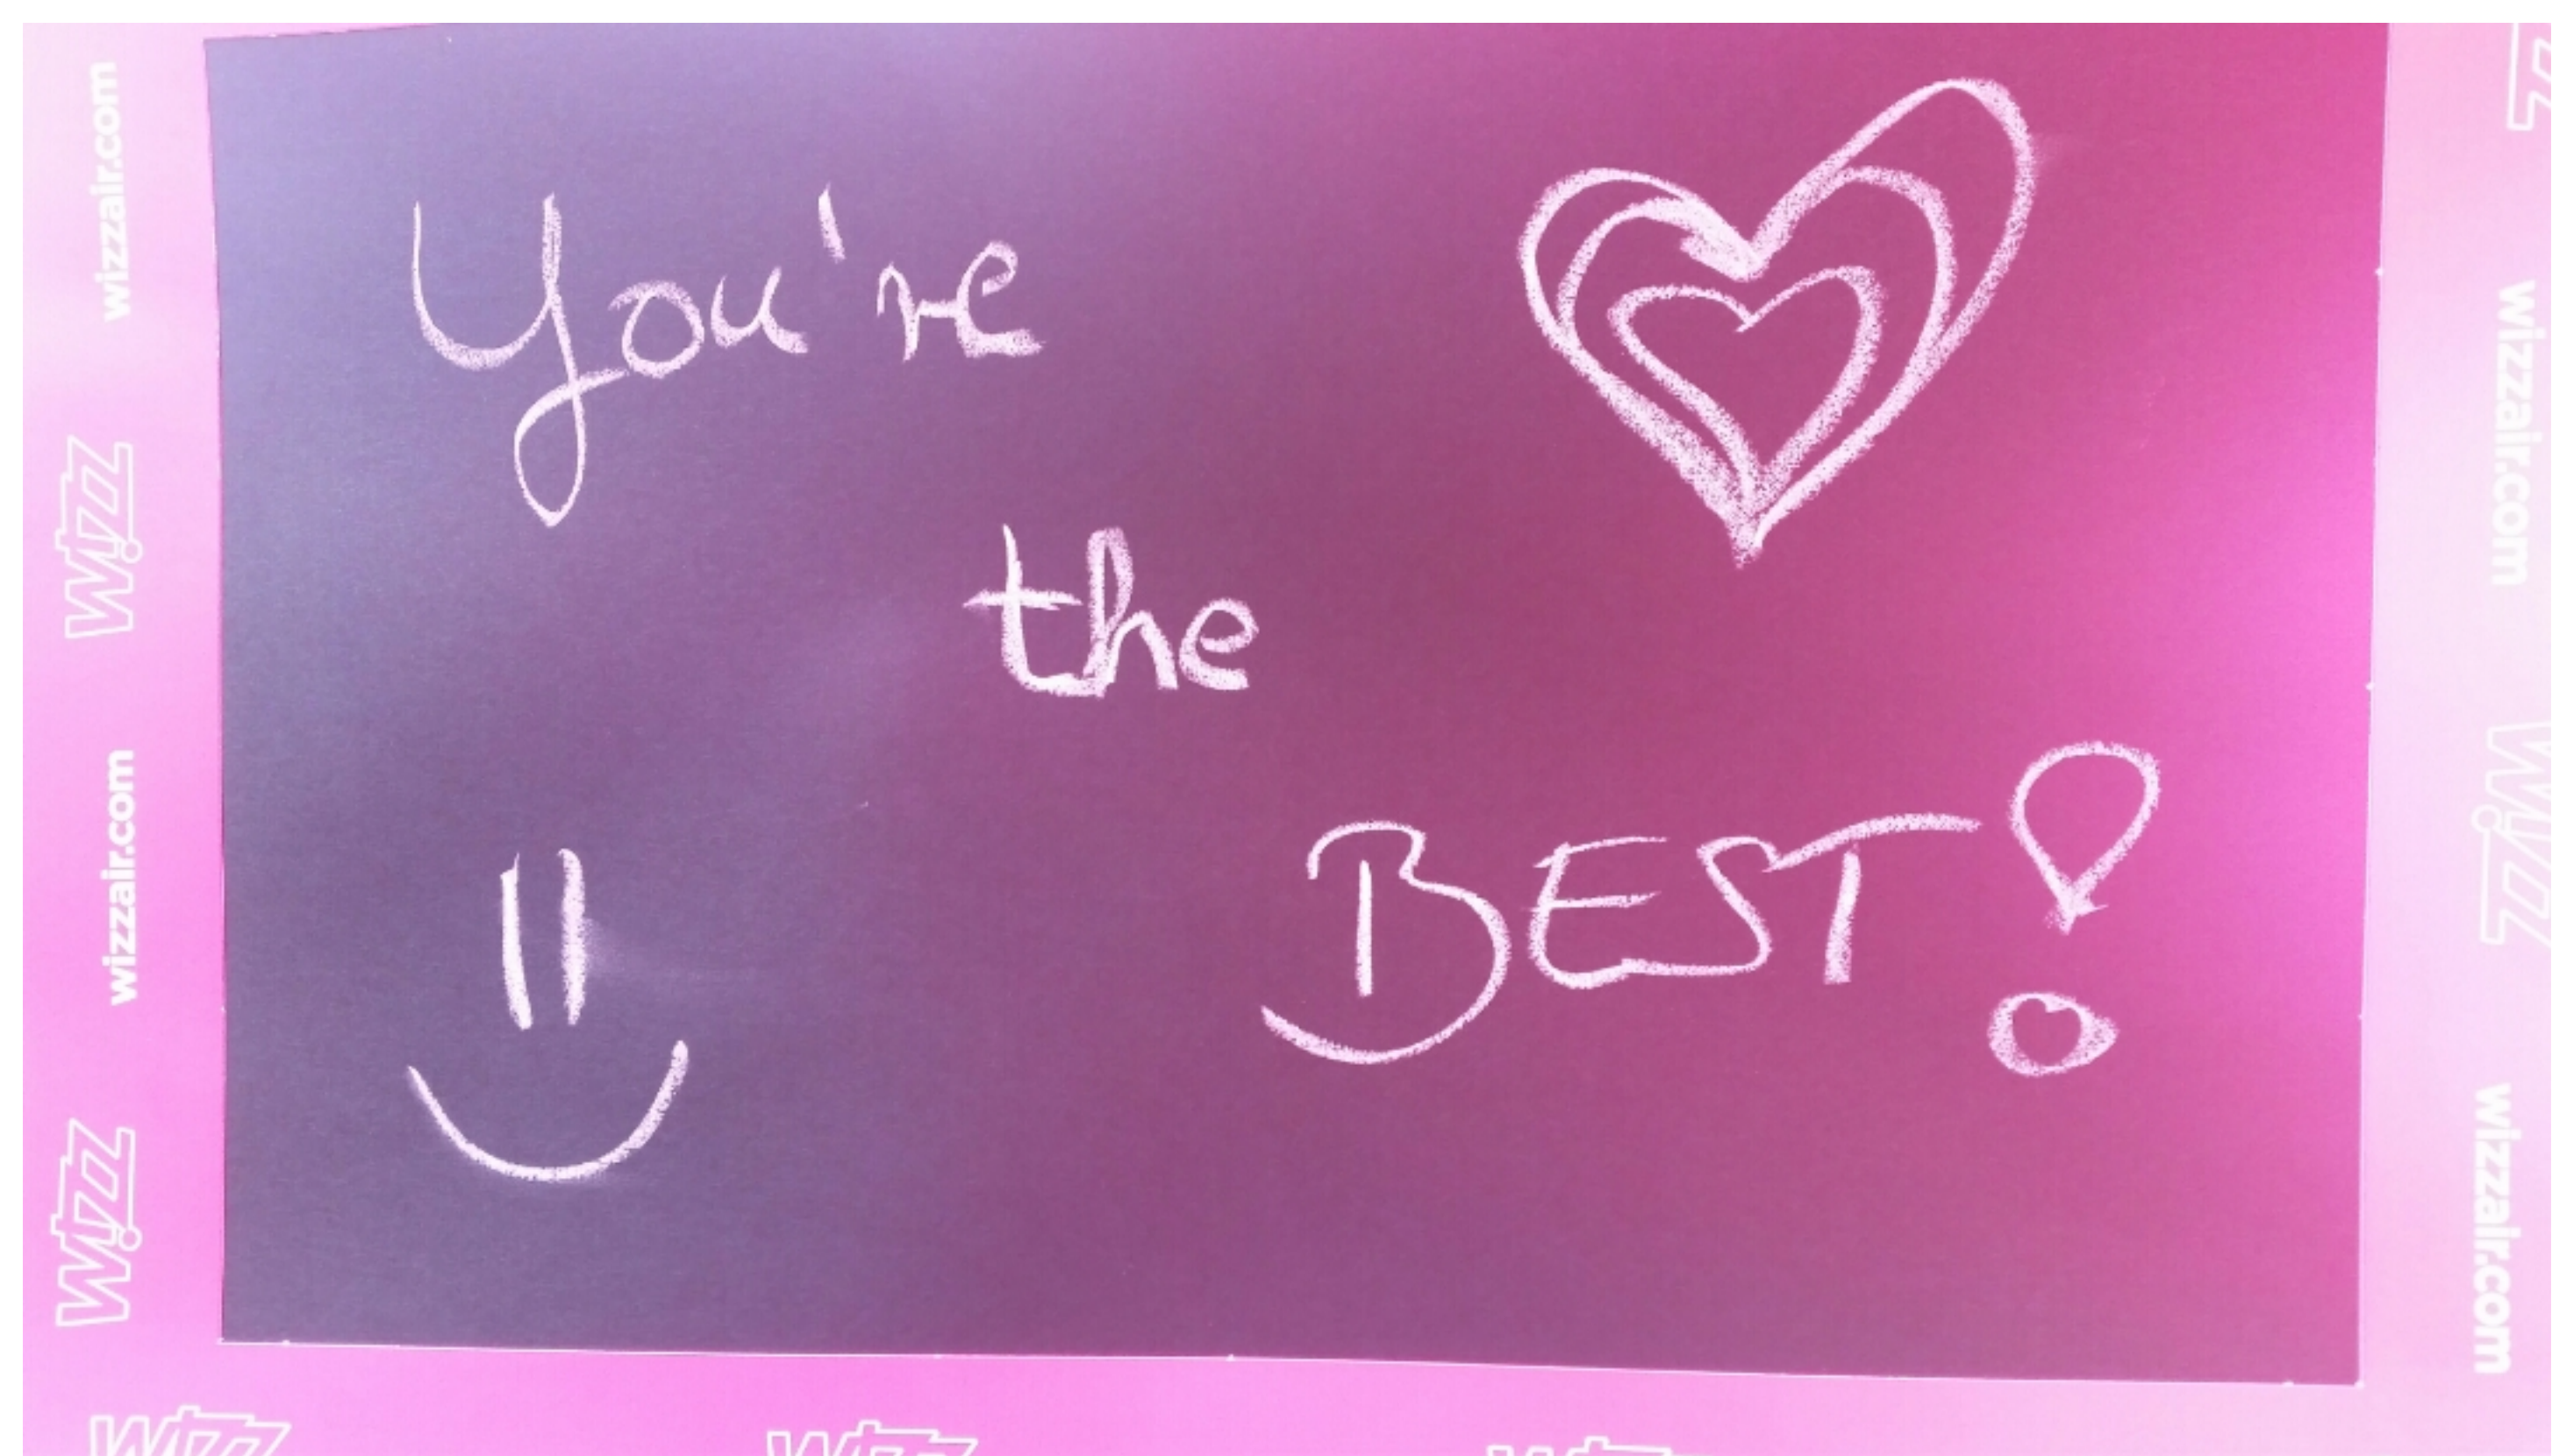

10 Sep 2016

Up 1st thing to register for the half marathon, about 2km away in City Park - like everything else in Budapest, amazingly well organised!

Wojciechowski Borbély Judit	1968
Wolf Attila	1991

Ye, Tianle	1984
Yildiz, Ali Can	1989
Yoric, Petitfrere
Yoshida, Emi
Young-Garner, Janet
Z. Nagy Gábor dr.

Viki took us for breakfast at A la Maison which is evidently THE place for brunch....and spectacularly good it was too!

St Stephen's Basilica
was only finished in 1905 but contains his
1,000 year old
mummified right hand
- nice!

Inside & outside St
Stephen's - a beauty inside, a couple of lovelies outside.....and a hard-looking bloke
standing guard.

Wandered around the centre then down the banks of the Danube
to Pontoon, a cool
'beach' bar complete
with swings!

The Jewish monument features iron casts of original shoes confiscated when the Hungarian Jews were shot and thrown into the Danube during the Holocaust.

Parliament is the 2nd largest in Europe and modelled on the UK version. Bullet holes are preserved where Soviet troops opened fire on protesters

In memoriam 1956

The massive National flag is guarded and patrolled constantly. Looked like very hot and boring work to us!

KOZMA FERENC
1826 – 1892

A MAGYAR LŐTÉRTAN RANYKORÁNAK
MEGALAPÍTÓJA.
A MODERN LŐTÉRTESZTÉSI IGAZGATÁS
MEGSZERVEZŐJE.

A little splash (it was HOT) and a kurtos
kalacs (chimney cake)
as a treat - light dough
cooked round a cone
and rolled in toppings

Caught the tram over to the Wine Fair at Buda Castle -
spectacular ride
across the Danube...where we'd be running tmrw!

Some very nice
vintages to sample;
you load up a special
card and it's all
contactless payment

Met Viki's best friend
Urshi as we sampled
and ate our way round
the Fair whilst admiring the
spectacular views

The Lions stand guard
over Szecheny Chain Bridge (modelled on Marlow Bridge!)

Evidently the sculptor
out and said he'd throw himself off the bridge if anybody
noticed. A 4yr old pointed out it was tongueless. Splash!
